

Tandiwe Ngwenya is currently serving as the “Deputy Head of Mission (Head of Programme and Advocacy)” for Nonviolent Peaceforce (NP) South Sudan, an international organization that fosters dialogue among parties in conflict and provides a protective presence for threatened civilians through unarmed strategies. She specializes in unarmed civilian protection and ensuring the safety and security of civilians in insecure environments. Her role is to manage the implementation of all of Nonviolent Peaceforce’s protection programming, overseeing community-based protection to meet needs in emergencies and rapidly evolving conflicts throughout South Sudan.

She is responsible for engaging in high-level advocacy, globally and nationally to support the reduction of violence and protection of civilians in South Sudan.

Tandi has over 8 years of experience working in the peacebuilding, human rights, protection, and unarmed civilian peacekeeping field. Tandi holds a BA in Psychology and a master’s degree in Peace and Governance from Africa University. Tandiwe is currently a Ph.D. Candidate and is working towards attaining a PhD in Public Management (Peacebuilding). Her research focuses on the nexus between armed conflict, trauma, and peacebuilding. Her research interest also includes trauma healing of displaced civilians in the midst of protracted conflict.
