Todd has been active for nearly 15 years in private practice as a natural resource, water law and environmental attorney and more than 20 years in non-profit and social justice work. Todd currently serves as Executive Director of SEED: Source for Educational Empowerment and Community Development, a non-profit organization dedicated to empowering individuals towards greater self-fulfillment, protection of the natural environment and service to the community at large (www.seednm.org). SEED is engaged in administration of the Inspire Santa Fe youth mentorship program (www.inspiresantafe.org), wildlife habitat conservation, and expanding its educational and economic development programming. SEED has also recently established relationships with Mediators Beyond Borders International and the Santa Fe Sister Cities and is actively exploring opportunities in international peacemaking and facilitation services. Todd is a Rotarian, has served on the Board of Directors of several New Mexico non-profit organizations on issues involving youth, education, health and the environment, and currently serves on the Board of Creativity for Peace, Rio Grande Return and the New Mexico Interfaith Community Housing Development Corporation.
